St. Mary's Catholic church has been the scene of many pretty weddings, but none surpassed the one of Wednesday, neither in solemnity nor beauty, when Miss Katherine Lawrence became the wife of Guswin B. Fahrendorf. Promptly at 12 Miss Malone played "Annie Laurie," which changed to the Mendelssohn Wedding march as the bride party entered the church. The ushers, Roy Byrne and Jack Turley, walked up aisle, followed by Miss Peters, the bride's maid, who was unattended, then the bride on the arm of her father marched to the altar rail, where the groom and groomsmen awaited them. After a few short remarks by the Rev. Father Galligan, the solemn marriage service of the Catholic church was performed. At the close of the ceremony Miss Ethel Rashband sang "O, Promise Me." Then to the strains of Mendelssohn's Spring song, the bride party left the church. The bride was gown in a blue traveling suit and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore a traveling suit of mink and carried roses. The church decorations were of carnations and roses. An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the intimate friends. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Salt Lake. From there they will go to California and will be at home to their friends in Ely, Nev., after March 1.
